I would like to express my appreciation to my wife Shirley, my sister Dawn Langford, my daughter Karen McNamee and her husband Peter, and my son Ian Ramsay all of whom, at different stages, read and edited the manuscript of this book and supplied helpful suggestions and valuable feedback. Also to my good friend John Crossingham, who assisted me from the very genesis of the idea for a book on this topic: acting as a sounding board and devil's advocate, encouraging me to remain as objective as possible in my study of the paranormal and constantly reminding me of my Christian heritage.
